"Into the light" Art Project

Too often we ignore what we believe has no affect on our lives, but addiction affects those around us in many ways. From the loss of someone we love to overdose, to the hope of a life in recovery, there are many stories to be told. For this project, each piece of paper includes words or images from someone in or someone who knows someone in recovery from, still struggling with, or lost to addiction.

The purpose of this event and project is to take these stories out of the shadows and into the light.
